Yesterday was a day of feasting and congratulation. Last night the outsiness men o' Colorado Springs joined will eminent citizens of the state and prominent railroad officials of the west in a paneuet of congratulation over the completion to his city of the great Rock is and railroad system. Assembled in the dining room of the asnesomest notel in the west, was a brin ant company of gentlemen, many of whose pames as awyers, statesmen, rai roac officials and fourna ists are familiar throughout the country.

it was a season for congratulation and citizen graspec the hand oricitizen with the feeling that the cays of commercia. prosperity were but just opening to the list'e ci y of nomes at the foot o' Pike's majestic beak. When it was first suggested that the Rock Island road, in its march to the setting sun, would come to Coloraco Springs, the citizens could hardly understand it. They had never i thoroughly appreciated their position as lying between the two largest cities of the plains, Denver and Pueblo, and at the point where the broad gauge Midland road pierces tue Rocky mountains. That the Micland will ultimately bush on to

Jan and lettle means of giving the rai roacs which enter this city an out et to the Pacific coast there can be no coupt. Then there are the immense cosi beds in the mountains and the large number of tourists who innually come to this vicinity! All of these things have had their influence in deciding the cestination of the Rock Island as they will have on other roads in the future. They had not yet awakened to the facts of their natural acvantages and it was only when one of the largest and most linfluential corporations of the country stook knocking at their threshold that tacy awoke to a realizing sense of them.

When it became known as winter that the Rock Island had decided fully to enter Colorado the cities of Denver and Pueblo each began a movement in the love of securing the terminus at that point. It was announced ate in the month of lanuary that officers of the road would visit the state for the purpose of examining the ground and deciding to what point the road should be built. Pre iminary surveys and a ready been made the summer previous. On the night of February 2d the enterprising little board of trade of Colorado Springs, voung in years but old already in good works, held a meeting and discussed the matter. It was decided that a committee which should fairly represent the best interests and business enterprise of the city should be absointed to consult with the officers upon neir arrival in the state. The committee was selected as follows: | D. 3. Fair- O'Brien, P. ley, chairman, Eor. John Cambbell, ex-Yayor J. F. Eumphrey, B. W. Steele LCDana..... and Capt. Y .. L.
